STORY OF A LYNCH HORROR IN A POLL-TAX STATE

By BEN DAVIS, Jr.

The surest way to freedom, and possibly to an "honor" citation for a defendantkiller in a poll tax state is:

- 1. That the dead victim should be a Negro, whose innocence is so apparent that his conviction has been twice reversed, once by the court in the poll tax state.
- 2. That the defendant should be a wealthy plantation owner, who sets himself up as a knight in shining armor protecting "white womanhood."

So it happened with W. S. Cochran, wealthy landlord, who walked into a Conroe, Texas, courtroom and emptied his revolver into the brain of Robert White, a Negro, on June 10.

FREED IN 2 MINUTES

Cochran was freed by this same court in TWO MINUTES yesterday. He might have had a longer trial if he had been prosecuted by the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals for killing a dog.

This is not one of President Roosevelt's "four freedoms" This is all four of them the right to frame up underprivileged American citizens, the right to convict them, the right to lynch them, and the right to go scot free from prosecution. Imagine spreading these "freedoms" around the world in the name of "Democracy"!

White was charged with ravishing Cochran's wife, the charge that washes away all sins against the Negro people. The case against him was so flimsy that the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals reversed his conviction. But White was tried again. The frame-up was exposed a second time when the U.S. Supreme Court felt compelled to reverse his conviction.

FLIMSY EVIDENCE

The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, which handled White's defense, said this (even though the NAACP itself did not see the national system of oppression which underlined White's case):

"The probability of White's guilt is rendered doubtful by the fact that fingerprints and a plaster cast of a footprint taken by police at the scene of the alleged crime, were never introduced as evidence by the state. Despite the fact that a physician examined Mrs. Cochran six hours after the alleged attack, no evidence was introduced that there were any traces of a venereal disease, from which White was alleged to be suffering."

Anyone would know that if the Texas court reversed White's conviction, the case must have been foul indeed (for the capitalist courts, particularly in poll tax states are second to none in upholding anti-Negro frame-ups).

White was being tried a third time, when he was shot to death. Clearly, if ever a man should be free-if ever a man was a victim of a Scottsboro frame-up-that man was Robert White.

THE FREE PRESS

But White is now dead. And one would have to use a microscope to find out about this shocking crime in the capitalist press. Maybe it's because the Times and Tribune-great "defenders" of democracy-felt as did the Daily News. The News carried a brief story which characterized Cochran sympathetically as an "HONOR

When Cochran saw White sitting in court he simply walked with his revolver openly in his hand in a crowded courtroom and shot him to death. He "gave himself up" to the prosecutor, who happened to be his personal friend. He was allowed the ridiculous and nominal bail of $500. As if to lend atmosphere to the picture of lynch justice, bail was arranged by Cochran's wealthy oil operator friend.

Cochran went home calm and free-while the Negro people, as always in such cases, are subjected to a reign of terror to suppress their indignation.

Four days later, the whole trial of the ruling class killer did not take ten minutes. The killer's friend prosecutor said at the farcical proceedings:

"The time has not come and I trust never will come when any man, black or white, can steal into a man's house and ravish his wife and go free."

GLORIFYING THE KILLER

In other words, the prosecutor became the killer's defense attorney, and all but pinned a medal on the killer's breast.

(The irony of the prosecutor talking of punishing white ravishers. The whole lynch system, with its anti-Intermarriage laws, provides the chivalrous Southern bourbons free rein to violate Negro womanhood and to degrade white womanhood with starvation wages in the mills.)

The prosecutor assumes that White was guilty—and he is supposed to be a pillar in the "temple of justice." The real killer is glorified—and by this very act, the prosecutor has shown himself unfit to hold public office. All of the court officials involved in this scandalous situation should be investigated and brought to trial.

Under the Federal Constitution, specifically the 14th Amendment which guaran-

"The Negro people in this demonstration will be marching not only for jobs," Mr. Henry said.

"They will be demonstrating against the present Administration's policy of discrimination—discrimination which is the more easily practiced in private industry because it is condoned or encouraged by the government. For that reason," Mr. Henry concluded, "the march must be more than simply a march; it must have the full character of a people's demonstration for all those rights the Negro people are supposed to enjoy under a democracy."

Another Move in a Ghastly Poker Game

. Through Monday's order by the President, all German consulates are to be closed down by July 10 and their representatives are to be deported from American soil. In this act'we are presented with a further unfoldment of the war crisis and of the Roosevelt administration's step-by-step plan to involve the United States to the utmost.

In the "blow for blow" diplomacy now being engaged in between Washington and Berlin, a ghastly poker game for high imperialist stakes is going on. The Roosevelt administration has now thrown down on the retable "the closing of the consulates" as its latest chip. Hitler, gambling with the lives of millions of European people, will come back with a higher ante. It will be a challenge to the challenge from the White House, and Roosevelt can be counted on quickly to

In such gaming with the fortunes, lives and future of the people there is every possibility of bringing about a total break bethe two nations. The closing of the consulates brings that break very near, and edges the United States closer to actual

The main thing before the people, then, is what is to come next. There are demands upon Germany still to come out of the Robin Moor affair. That is the center around which all these present acts revolve. The closing of the consulates is merely the framework for the broken-down negotiations which the moves and counter-moves of the rival imperialist interests are making more and more

What has become of the "restraint" which was so highly advertised around the sinking of the Robin Moor? The American people want to see a real restraint exercised in this dangerous set-up. They will have to say that more definitely to the White House and to Capitol Hill.

Labor Has a Reply to 'Labor's Blackest Week'

· Labor's Non-Partisan League has presented an accurate indictment of the Roosevelt administration's onslaught against the unions and the workers. The ordering out of troops against strikers, the "work or fight" decree, and the legislation aimed at setting up compulsory arbitration are correctly characterized as "advances far along the totalitarian path of forced labor."

This statement by the LNPL is another forceful reminder to the trade unions of the menace to the workers' rights which is involved in these anti-labor acts, directed from the White House. Such a statement can stimulate the further speaking out by labor in defense of its liberties—and particularly (as the statement emphasizes) of its right to strike.

The acts which the LNPL castigates arise directly from the entire war drive of the administration. They are bound up integrally with that war drive, as the Daily Worker has repeatedly stated. To oppose such acts effectively, the trade unions are obliged to heighten their campaign against the war and to take the lead in the peace campaign of the American people.

The anti-labor barrage of the administration, moreover, is fully aided and participated in by both the Republican and Democratic parties. That barrage is a product of the "national unity which has welded together all the Wall Street monopolists in one common pro-war and anti-labor front, and which has merged the two political expressions of Wall Street in a like manner and for a like purpose.

> If labor is to defend itself against such unity on the part of the political agencies of its enemies, labor will have to consider more seriously independent political-action on its

Organized labor is stronger numerically today than ever before in its history. It has also made important beginnings in the direction of independent political action, one of which is Labor's Non-Patrisan League. Many of these beginnings, unfortunately, tend to remain first steps. The events of the past week-"labor's blackest week"-should serve to make more evident than ever the need for a new party of labor and the people.

What is more, millions of workers and other people rallied during that week to the defense of their interests and in protest against the administration's measures. The manner in which these millions thus responded indicates that what is needed is leadership and the organizational work which can weld these masses together in an antiimperialist Labor-Farmer political party.

PM Has Its Own Financial Drive

Compare two New York newspapers. The Daily Worker and PM.

Both need money. Both recently launched financial drives to finance their publishing. The Daily Worker goes to its readers for funds - pennies, nickels, dimes, quarters, Where does PM go for its contribution?

To the multi-millionaire who owns and controls it. Let the weekly magazine, Time, tell the story:

Marshall Field, having sunk some $1,950,000 into the 5 cent New York tabloid PM, and having called in outside experts to see what was the matter, was preparing last week to back another paper. . Last winter it was reported that Marshall Field had set May 1 as the deadline for PM to succeed, but before May 1 he put up another $500,000 to keep PM going four months longer." PM's financial drive is thus easily solved. It goes cap in hand to its master, Marshall Field, who dips into his $100,000,000 fortune. Every headline in PM, every editorial opinion, every "exclusive" report from fancy foreign correspondents in England and China, bears the open or hidden mark of Marshall Field's millions.

Nothing will ever appear in PM that seriously menaces Marshall Field's parasitic fortune or the social system that makes it possible. There is not a single writer on PM who is not aware of that fact, including Mr. Ernest Hemingway.

The Daily Worker serves the victims of Marshall Field's fortune, while PM serves the master of that fortune. Therein lies the difference between the political opinions of PM and those of the Daily Worker.

Dollar Domination In Puerto Rico

· The island of Puerto Rico is a nearby colony of the United States. From the way its population is handled, we can get a good idea of what is in store for the victims of the unfolding American Empire.

A Puerto-Rican worker, Cruz Rios, was shot down in cold blood on May, 31 by a U. S. Marine, Popular indignation compelled a court-martial trial. With true imperialist arrogance, the Marine was acquitted. Two brothers, called Vaquez, were similarly, beaten to death at Camp Buchanan four months ago. Nothing was done. Insolence and violence typify U.S. imperialist domination of Puerto Rico as it typifies all imperialism, whether it be the brutality of a Hitler in Czechoslovakia or of a Churchill in India.

Mr. Rexford G. Tugwell has just returned from Puerto Rico where he acted as an adviser to Secretary Ickes. Mr. Tugwell told the press that he "hopes to arrive at a solution of the land question which will benefit workers and small farmers, while not disturbing the large sugar plantation owners (!) who hold most of the large sections of

In these words, Mr. Tugwell debunks himself. How is it possible to attack the roots of the peasants' poverty without breaking up the grip of the large landlords? Is the answer to be found in the fact that the biggest landlords in Puerto Rico happen to be Wall Street's banks like the National City Bank?

President Roosevelt's talk of the "four freedoms" is mocked not only by the poverty within the United States; it is shattered altogether by the imperialist ruthlessness of Wall Street rule in Puerto Rico.

Inviting Disaster for Themselves

Those ninety-nine labor officials who yesterday released a statement urging the President to hurry into the imperialist slaughter are treading the path of the reactionary A. F. of L. leaders in the last World War.

These officials are not only inviting their own doom, but that of the labor movement. They are giving a green light to the President to do virtually anything to the unions, since that is what the war program means. Gompers blazed this Social-Democratic path in 1917, and the reward was anti-labor repression and the destructive Palmer raids.

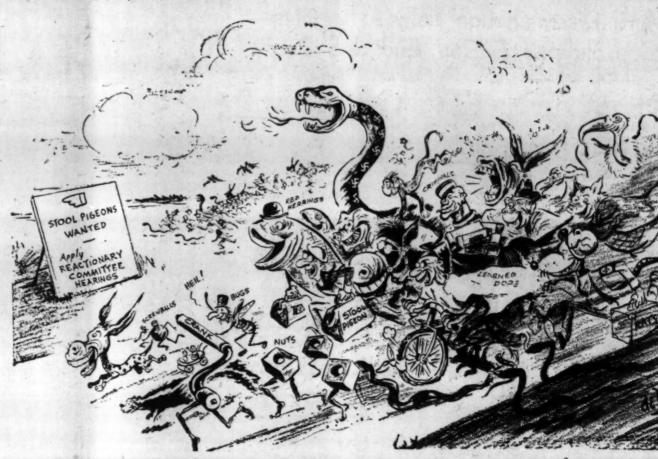

It is interesting that these 99 officials call upon the President to "go forward" against "slavery." The President is going forward, but is for slavery-slavery for the organized workers at the point of a bayonet.

But today the labor movement is stronger and more conscious of its responsibility in leading the peace movement and the fight for living standards and freedom. It is in a better position to make its voice heard against the war program that means death in the trenches and involuntary servitude at

STOOL'S PARADISE

SOCIAL DEMOCRATS APPLAUD THE ASSAULTS ON LABOR

· If lack of information has led any of the organized workers to have any lingering doubts about Social Democracy's function in aiding the advance of fascism, any such doubts can now be dissolved.

In its issue of last Saturday (June 14), the Social Democratic organ, the New Leader, placed itself definitely beside the Morgans and Rockefellers in applauding every anti-labor move of the White House.

The use of troops against the Inglewood strikers—a strikebreaking device which labor has fought against since the Seventies-was hailed by this Social Democratic sheet as "both necessary and unavoidable." It joined Attorney General Robert Jackson in terming the request of workers for 75 cents an hour "a Communist insurrection." It actually howled for enforcement of the "work or fight" order. Of the aluminum and aviation strikers, it said: "There is no reason why these dupes should be permitted to escape military service."

Thus the New Leader borrows from the language of the most notorious open shoppers, such as Henry Ford, and from the expressions of the Burns and Pinkerton agencies, to assail young men who were seeking to better their meager wages of approximately $20 per week. The stalling by the Mediation Board and the corporations is ignored. The $40,000,000 in profits which the North American Aviation, Inc. will make this year is glossed over. The strikers are venomously dubbed "dupes" and are turned over by the New Leader for "punishment" by military dictatorship.

The Social Democratic sheet goes ever further, and incites the government to break up union organizations, such as the California Industrial Council of the CIO. Such counsel has only been hitherto associated in this country with vigilante movements and labor spy agencies. The Social Democrats come by such a shameless heritage logically, as it was the shooting down of militant workers by such German Social Democrats as Noske and Scheidemann which paved the way for the advent of Hitler. In France it was the Social Democratic policy of Leon Blum which split the People's Front and prepared the road for the downfall of that

The alleged excuse for unloosing such terror here is the existence of "Communists" in the labor movement. But the gibes of the New Leader are not confined to Communists, whose sole crime incidentally is that they have devoted themselves wholeheartedly to the advance of the workers. The New Leader likewise levels its guns against President Philip Murray of the CIO and John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers. The latter it labels "an arch-demagogue" and "a traitor to labor's cause." No doubt the victory which Lewis and the miners are winning over the Southern feudal coal barons and the great gains achieved by the coaldiggers have infuriated this political ally of the Wall Streeters and the pro-fascists. It is every one who stands in any small way for defense of the workers from the advancing military dictatorship that the New Leader howls against as "an ally of the Com-

In the pages of the New Leader is openly expressed what all the representatives of Social Democratism are intent upon-the destruction of labor in the name of "labor." Such is the job of the Hillmans, the Greens. the Freys and the Norman Thomases. The quicker labor understands this fully, the quicker will it be able to protect itself from annihilation.

Wall Street Scoffs at the Middle Classes

THURMAN ARNOLD, the "trust buster" of labor unions, has been spoofing the small business men. He has thereby provided an opportunity for the Wall Stree Journal to let out a loud guffaw yesterday at the expense of Mr. Arnold-and to let everyone know that the small business man has as much chance under monopoly capitalism as a snowball in highly heated re-

On Friday Mr. Arnold appeared before the American Business Congress (of small business men) in New York with the flaming message that small business is being crushed by Big Business and labor. This was a thinly disguised bid on the part of Mr. Arnold (who has allowed the trusts to grow into huge noxious plants) to wean the small merchant away from the labor unions, his natural allies.

But Mr. Arnold couldn't stand before the small merchants and not have a word to say about what they all know-that they are being edged out of existence by monop-Therefore the "trust buster" "We will get no real expansion of production until we free the market so that the competitive forces of small business, each anxious to produce and get a share for itself, may operate."

This is too much for the Wall Street Journal, which cannot conceal the scorn which monopoly capital feels for the false promises of the Roosevelt administration to the middle classes,

"A consummation devoutly to be wishit comments witheringly of Mr. Arnold's wordage. "Competition means winners and losers: what do we do for the losers?"

The promises to the small business man remind this Wall Street organ of "a vision of the stately towers and minarets of the holy city of our dreams . . . where all our problems will be solved, where we shall have competition in which every one wins, where prices will be low for the buyer and high for the seller, the business cycle will cease from troubling. . . . "

Such is a "Utopia," never to be realized, in the sarcastic judgment with which the journal dampens all the oratory of Mr. Arnold-and also displays its contempt for the middle classes, depicted as "losers" because they are unfit.

But the Wall Street Journal has its own Achilles' heel. It resorts to such badinage in order to cover up the dilemma which pricks and pains monopoly capitalism-its inability to maintain that "free market" any more, which was one of the major selling points for "private enterprise" as a system.

If a hopeful future for the middle classes under monopoly capitalism is a "Utopian vision," then what stake have the middle classes in maintaining capitalism? They have precious little, and their own true interests lie in joining with the workers to advance Socialism in America.

Such is the proper response both to Mr. Arnold's idle talk and to the Wall Street Journal's chatter about the inability "to equalize men's capacities" for making a liv-

I suggest that we have the entire month of next April as Labor month. During that time labor unions can really go to town, ending up with the grand parade on May First. Included in the activities could be a series of labor plays by union actors and different locals, a series of musical festivals, chorus, string and many others, talks and discussions of labor problems. During this month the idea of making New York a 100 per cent Union Town can really be worked on. Every one could insist on union made articles with union labels. If there is any doubt as to the product, a directory listing and classifying all union products could be drawn up. "Frank Admission"

New York, N. Y.

Editor, Daily Worker: A frank admission that capitalism today means a declining lower standard of living, and a still more amazing confession that a rising standard of living means socialism, comes from capitalist quarters. The National Retail Credit Association, meeting at the Hotel New Yorker this week, heard their past president, Leopold L. Meyer, executive vice-president of Foley

Bros. Houston, Texas, make this statement;
"There is little question but that the social revolution through which we are passing has resulted from unsatisfied desires for the luxuries of life which the masses have been taught to demand and expect. As unhappy as the realization may be in the capitalistic system to which we subscribe, it is not in the order of assemble to which we subscribe, it is not in the order of things for each of us to have the plenty that the few are in position to enjoy. If the doctrine is to be maintained that there shall be no inhibitions against unjustifiable demands for the last drop from the cup of material life, and that the standards of living shall be raised to such exaggerated levels that the man of comparatively modest income today shall enjoy what the paratively modest income today shall enjoy what the man of means dared not covet on yesterday, then my fear is that socialism can be the only result, and that the capitalistic system as we conceive of it today may not survive."

perialism date back to the very beginnings of the motion picture industry. Long before the World War, certain Wall Street interests foresaw the possibilities of the screen as a propaganda medium as well as a money-maker. Among the first of the big banks in the movie field was the Empire Trust Com-pany which stood behind Biograph, the studio that supported McKinley for President and in 1901 presented Edward, Prince of Wales to American audiences as "an attractive-young empire - salesman with a mighty gun standing at attention beside the Union Jack."

Louis in 2nd

By Lester Rodney

It's more or less traditional for sports writers who will just be sitting and watching while the principals are busy throwing punches to solemnly and exactly calculate the outcome the day before a big fight. It's really a silly There are far too many factors that lie beyond the possibility of the sports writers' knowledge to make a fight fore-cast even as scientific as, a weather forecast, and if you've had your newly cleaned and pressed gabardine suit rained on during a "Fair and Warmer" day you know how exactly scientific weather forecasts are, with all their data and instruments.

Who can presume to calculate the exact amount of punching wer that Billy Conn (never knocked down) can take tonight without falling? Who can reckon with exactness the intensity of his desire to win and his courage under the numbing punches of Louis? Past performances may give some idea, but can't tell the whole story. Many a track man whose record never showed a quarter mile under .50 seconds has upset the dope with a .49 performance under pressure. There's no exact calculating the human effort and that's what fight writers are trying to do when they predict the round of a knockout.

As a reader put it in commenting on the Daily Worker:
"The only things in the Daily Worker I've discovered I can't believe are the weather forecasts, Marmaduke the sea serpent and your fight predictions."

Howbeit, while the tradition of fight forecasting is not one of th meaningful traditions, it certainly is one of the most harmless, and fans seem to like it. It has its percentage for the scribe too. If he happens to hit it on the nose, you're sure to be reminded of that fact the next day. A lousy prediction—well, now, what'ya expect for three as long as we're going along with the tradition, it's Louis to win in the second round. The reasons? Well, you know how we rate Louis. The hardest and fastest hitting champion in history, the greatest. His training has been pointed towards a fast, forcing start. He's going to come out punching for a quick finish and he has the equipment to make that a very good possibility. One of the features of this great fighter that you don't hear so much about is his adaptability, his ability to key his fight to the type of opposition he meets. That factor is a very important one in his record seventeen straight title defenses, fought against all manner of crouching, backpedalling covering up, boxing and rushing opponents. He's fought a crouching 5 fcot 6 Galento and a stand-up 6 foot 6 Baer and brought them both wn. A champion who hasn't got that adapability doesn't remain Max Baer was a good fighter, but he only knew one way to fight, and was dethroned by Jimmy Braddock, who figured him out

How good a fighter is Conn? Just what is Louis up against? Billy is a good fighter. He's as fine an exponent of the art of ssic boxing as the ring boasts. He was a very good light heavyweight champ (175 pound limit). He's not a devastating puncher, but his fast left hook isn't exactly a love tap, especially when a lot of them add up. Yet the truth of the matter is that this is an uneven match. Some of the Pittsburgh kid's backers recall the Dempacy-Tunney fight, where the latter, a skillful boxer without a knockout punch, upset dynamic Jack. The comparison doesn't come close. Tunney a full-grown heavyweight and wasn't spotting Dempsey any weight Jack, a great fighter in his day, was on the downgrade, with a twoyear accumulation of non-fighting rust.

If you have to go back into fistic history for a parallel to tonight's fight, you'd come much closer with the Dempsey-Carpentier fight The light Frenchman was a fast, clever boxer but was sadly overnatched with the thunderous hitting heavyweight that was Dempsey Having nothing to fear from Georges' punches, Dempsey moved right in blasting. There aren't many nostalgic sports writers left who won't ede that Louis can hit faster and harder than Jack did at his peek Much is made of the fact that Conn is fast and a good boxer. He is. But so is Louis. Joe isn't quite as fast or deft as Billy but he doesn't have to be. A fighter concentrates on developing his most pronounced talents. Conn can't punch hard, so he's developed his boxing skill to the utmost. Louis has made the most of his punching power, developing timing, rhythm and accuracy. That DOESN'T mean Louis can't box or is slow. He combines there with skill to a greater degree than any heavy-weight ever all, and that's why Conn wouldn't beat him even if Billy weighted 200, which he doesn't by at least 20 pounds.

Joe's left jab is a darting, unstoppable thing and Billy has never felt a jab like it. It's the beginning of the end, a great leveller. A few of them and Billy's speed will begin to leave him. Then come

Billy is dead game, but he's tackling too much. It's a fight that lidn't have been made by the Conn camp now if it weren't for the war situation and the feeling that this is the time to cash in on a big match and big gate before the shooting stage starts. Billy is being rushed in over his head.

As for Louis, he takes 'em all. He's one champion who meant it he spoke into the microphone after winning the title and said he'd be a fighting champion, giving anyone who thought he rated a chance a crack at the title. You can forget much of the press agent inspired pre-fight apimus. Joe is a level-headed fellow wh knows the time and doesn't get mad easily. While he himself dis-dains pre-fight chest-thumping and opponent-belittling, he knows that it's part of the buildup for a fight that has to be sold to the fans.

But DON'T forget that he's the world's greatest fighter, in physical prime and out to win by a fast knockout. The way would guess it (remember what we said at the start ab act rounds), is for Joe to catch up to Billy halfway through the first round and drop him a couple of times before the round ends. Being a championship match, it's unlikely that it will be stopped if there's any likelihood of Conn's con-and boxing skill gone, it may well end in the second That's how it looks from here, some distance from the inside of

Jurges Wobbly; On Irish Fighters,

Di Mag's Importance and Wasdell

It's bad weather again for Billy and approached by 11 big league the absence of Joe Di Maggio at Jurges. The Giant shortstop, who played sensationally after Mayo in-made the club susceptible to left-handers and they lost too much ground to make up later. After their first 55 games last year, most of them Di Maggioless, the Yanks were in fourth place, 6½ games off the pace. This year Joe has been in there from the start and that makes a difference. For he

America First' of 'Hitler Technique'

Larry MacPhail, president of the Brooklyn baseball club, yesterday accused the America Pirst Committee of adopting tactics resembling the "Hitler technique" to force per-mission for the use of Ebbets Field mission for the use of Ebbets Field for a "Lindbergh Raily." MacPhail sald that although the field had been denied to all "propaganda" groups the America First Committee has threatened to "abolish night baseball" and "boycott the Dodgers." "My personal views have nothing to do with the matter," MacPhail said. "But since they have been "hallenged I have no chiertons to
